

Nirel Levi

Director, 32 Ventures

Nirel is the Director of 32 Ventures Investment Portfolio. Originally from Israel, where she served for 4 years in the Israeli military, she became the first female officer of a 50 soldier platoon in the Southern division. Nirel has 8 years' experience as an entrepreneur managing her own real-estate group in New York City. She also has 2 years' experience on an investment banking M&A team with a focus on Technology and Media. Additionally, Nirel has served as a consultant at Deloitte.

Nirel graduated The City University of New York as the class valedictorian and currently serves on the Board of Trustees. Along the way she has won several accolades including awards for leadership from the Israeli Defense Forces; awards for entrepreneurship; and special recognition from the City University of New York, Lehman College.

Furthermore, Nirel is very involved in her community and participates with several non-profit organizations. She has founded "The Alumni Initiative" which is a grassroots movement aiming to connect underprivileged students with mentors in the business and finance fields. She lives with her husband, Michael in New York City. Nirel also loves to read nonfiction books and is an avid long-distance road cyclist.
